Science	Tri 1	Tri 2	Tri 3
Describes and classifies matter by its observable properties and how these properties are suited to different purposes by planning and conducting investigations.
Constructs an evidence-based account of how a great variety of objects can be built up from a small set of pieces.
Constructs an argument with evidence that heating or cooling a substance may cause changes that can be observable, reversible, and sometimes non-reversible.
Uses information from several sources to provide evidence that Earth events can occur quickly or slowly.
Obtains information to identify where water is found on Earth and develops a model to represent the shapes and kinds of land and bodies of water in an area.
Plans and conducts an investigation to determine if plants need sunlight and water to grow.
Develops a simple model that mimics the function of an animal in dispersing seeds or pollinating plants.
Makes observations of plants and animals to compare the diversity of life in different habitats.
Social Studies	Tri 1	Tri 2	Tri 3
Understands how communities are affected by change, place, and relationships.
Understands how and why communities change.
